

REMARKS

New claims 43 and 44 are specifically directed to a situation where the "wall" separating the tissue disposal section and the tissue dispenser section is defined by the dispenser body, rather than by other structure, such as a tissue cartridge disposed in the tissue dispenser section.

New claims 45 and 46 recite that the tissue disposal section can expand to at least double its original volume. That feature is evident from a comparison of the tissue disposal section 15 shown in Fig. 1A (original volume) and that shown in Fig. 1B (expanded volume).

Respectfully submitted,
